Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurGuilt is in the eye of the beholder ...When her cold and indifferent husband vanishes, so does Lois's old life. Now she is ready to take her chances again. There's only one fly in the ointment: Janie-Gay, ex-partner of the son Lois lost to drugs, and spiteful mother of the small, neglected child she can't get out of her mind.Caring's not something one can lay aside, and Lois is soon tangled in webs of deceit. Worse, she is on a collision course with a remorseless society that claims to support and protect. Now, more than ever, she could use the skills of her once frozen heart...Revue de presse"Fine is a storyteller of brilliance, and this short tragedy is utterly compelling." (Kate Saunders - The Times)"Anne Fine is on sparkling form" (Sunday Times)"A sharp sense of danger always crackles in the background whenever Anne Fine writes for adults" (The Independent)"Subtle, nuanced, beguiling and often shocking.It will smash and grab your attention right from the start" (The Scotsman)"Anne Fine's trademark bite is ever-present in this short, sharp and typically dark novel ... leavened with an acute sense of humour" (The Daily Telegraph)Prsentation de l'diteurGuilt is in the eye of the beholder ...When her cold and indifferent husband vanishes, so does Lois's old life.
